

Alberto Stocco

Biography

Stocco is an European drummer born in Veneto Region October 11th, 1990.

He soon began the study of drums and percussions inspired by great musicians of the past and present such as Buddy Ritch, John Bonham, Jojo Mayer and Benny Greb who also knew in 2012 during the special one day workshop held at the Prosdocimi Recording Studio in Carmignano di Brenta (PD) – Italy

Alberto Stocco, former member of the band ExKGB is now member of TUNATONES, a New Rockabilly band created with guitarist Mike 3rd and bassist Alessandro Arcuri.

He also works as session musician at Prosdocimi Recording Studio and other studios.

Alberto Stocco studies at the Modern Music Academy in Padova with teachers Paolo Bertorelle and Davide Bettella as well as attending to different workshops and conferences around the world.

In 2011 he creates with musician, record producer Mike 3rd the Prosdocimi Music Academy, the music school where Stocco is the main drums teacher.

In 2012 the talented drummer meets the quality of prestigious Italian artisanal Stocco Drums becoming very soon one of their endorsers.

In 2013 Alberto Stocco shows a strong creative force having both bands (ExKGB and TUNATONES) presenting their new albums and promotional tours.

December last year, aside his bands, drummer Stocco has been playing with British singer/songwriter Jasmine Rodgers.

In 2014, at Prosdocimi Recording Studio, Alberto Stocco worked on four songs from Mike 3rd upcoming solo album titled "In the woods". This has been a super exciting experience since the drummers line-up on this album features other two great musicians like Benny Greb and Pat Mastelotto.

Recently, he has been hired by two American artists, Barbarians and Kathleen Victoria Blackwell to record on their new albums.
